A GIRL'S A GIRL FOR A' THAT. Is there a lady in the isnd
That to ast, her rank and a' that?
With searnful eye we pass her by,
And little care for a' that;
For Nature's charm shall bear the palmA girl's a girl for a' that.

What thou is her neck with gems she deck,
with folly's gear and a' that,
And gaily ride in pomp and pride;
We can dispense with a' that.
An honest heart acts so such part—
A girl's a girl for a' that.

The nobly bern may proudly scorn A lowly lass and a that;
A pretty face has far more grace. Than haughty looks and a that;
A bounte main needs no such aid—
A girl's a girl for a that.

And let us trust that come it must,
And sure it will for a' that,
Vinen faith and love, all aris above,
Shail eign supreme and a' that,
And every youth confess the truth—
A girl's agirl for a' that.

MR. NOBODY.

I know a funny fittle man, As quiet as a mouse,
Who does the miscillet that is done
In everybody's house.
There's no one ever soes his face,
And yet we all agree,
That every plate we break was cracked
By Mr. No-bod-se.

Tis he that always tears our books,

Who leaves our doors alar;
He pulls the bustons from our shirts,
And scattlets pins afar.
That squeaking door will always squeak
For, brithee don't your see.
We leave the aring to be done
by Mr. No-bod-en.

The finger marks upon the doors,
By none of us are made;
We new r leave the blinds unclosed,
To let the curtains lade;
The link we never spill; the boots
That lying around you see,
Are not our boots? They all belong
To Mr. No-bod-ee.

Murder by Wholesale.

The Philadelphia Press of the 24th, says: By midnight mail last night, from Pottstown, Pa., a terrible story reached us. It tells of the murder of four women by one man-not all at the same time, not at one butchery, like that of Probst, or the murder of the Peightal family, near Huntingfor none of these terrible crimes.

Messrs, Colby & Co., of Niles, Michigan—gentiemen of unlimited means—have come into possession of the mines, and contemplate the immediate outlay of $30,000 or $40,000 in the erection of such machinery as may be thought necessary o Insure successful operations .- Cuiro Bulletin, 27th.

The Fate of a Cawnpore Captive.

A Canada paper says: "A report captives taken at Cawnpore, during the Sepoy war, still survives. When Gen. Wheeler and one of his two young and beautiful daughters were ma a cred, the other young lady, a girl of eighteen or nineteen years of age, disappeared, having been carried up the country by her special captor. However, before long her friends were relieved from the suspense which was caused by an uncertainty as to her fate, by the arrival of an authenticated story. It was asserted that Miss Wheeler, after having stabbed her master, his wife and three children, had flung herself down a well and put a period to her own existence. There was no reason to doubt the story, and it has been believed to the present time. We now discover that the story was a fabrication from first to last, and that the poor young lady has survived to this day as a slave, under a Mohammedan name, in the family of her master who escaped hanging by the amnesty An Indian civil servant, while en-camped near a village up the country, on one of his official tours, received private intelligence that Miss Wheeler was the lumate of the harem of a petty prince of Rajah.
